November 2016: Since 2010, the French association « Femmes de l'économie », organizes region-based ceremonies to award the female CEO, leader or manager. On November 25th, Fanny Tresallet, Amaris' regional COO for Asia has been awarded the silver medal in the 'International Women' category during the ceremony held in Clermont-Ferrand».

Fanny Tresallet joined Amaris in 2011, in Switzerland. At the beginning of her Amaris' adventure, guided by her entrepreneurship instinct, she developed a new commercial digital offer in the IS/IT range of services to the benefit of our international clients based in Switzerland. Two years later, Olivier Brourhant, co-founder and CEO of Amaris, offered her the opportunity to open the first Amaris' office in Asia. She was 26.

She implemented the activities of the company, recruited and trained the teams, in a whole new country about which she didn't know much. Soon, she had to acquaint herself with the Chinese language and culture, 'to be able to correctly pronounce my co-workers' name. I also wanted to better understand the Chinese culture to adapt my way of working and my management methods,' she relates.

Fanny Tresallet is now responsible for all the Asian region. She manages 400 persons. Her current role is the supervision the activities throughout the area (China, Vietnam, Singapore, India, and Japan) and the development of activities in new countries (Australia, Malaysia, Korea...)

The « Femmes de l'économie » rewarded an outstanding career, in terms of speed, earliness and success of Fanny Tresallet's entrepreneurial venture. She bagged the silver medal in the 'International Women' category.
