

A new office in Guangzhou: Amaris strengthens its presence in China

Amaris already has a strong presence in China with offices in Shanghai, Beijing, a recently opened subsidiary in Wuhan, and now the new Guangzhou office.

With a population of 14.5 million, Guangzhou is the capital and most populous city of Guangdong province in southern China. The Guangdong region is projected to become the 6th largest economy in the world by 2035.

Why opening a new office there?

1. To follow a client as we are already working on 10 projects for them;
2. It's the third most economically developed city in mainland China;
3. To strengthen our presence in southern China, particularly in the automotive, electronics and engineering development sectors, but also in telecommunications.

Key facts & figures:

- Business opportunities: Science &Tech, IS & Digital
- Sector: Automotive
- Activities: Software development, and software tech
- Recruitment objectives: +30 consultants by 2019.

About Amaris:

Amaris is an independent group that is organised as an international business ecosystem, offering its clients an infinite range of services to help them manage their operations, strengthen their innovation capabilities or, more generally, add value to their activities in a flexible and scalable way. In 11 years of existence, Amaris has become more than just an international and independent consulting group.