

A new office in Ankara: Amaris expands in Turkey

October 2018: Amaris already has 40 consultants working from its Istanbul office, and now profits from the booming industrial market in Ankara to strengthen its local network by opening its first subsidiary in the city.

“It all started back in January 2018 when 2 consultants from the Istanbul office were assigned to a client’s project in Ankara. Six months later, Amaris decided to open a new subsidiary there, and now there are 20 consultants working on automotive & space defence projects.” – Ahmet AVCI, Managing Director, Istanbul & Ankara

This remarkable success is due to Amaris consultants’ strong expertise in engineering, especially in mechanical design & electronic hardware. It also means the Amaris Group is now looking to recruit 30 new consultants in Ankara by the end of 2019, mostly engineers with a science & tech background.

The new office is located in downtown Ankara (23th Floor, Paragon Tower, Cankaya).

Key business opportunities in Ankara:

- Turkey’s capital and second-largest city in the country
- Many science & technology clients are based in this highly industrialized city (whereas Istanbul is more dominated by the IS & digital market)

About Amaris:

Amaris is an independent group that is organised as an international business ecosystem, offering its clients an infinite range of services to help them manage their operations, strengthen their innovation capabilities or, more generally, add value to their activities in a flexible and scalable way. In 11 years of existence, Amaris has become more than just an international and independent consulting group.